Scientists Strive For 'Fix' On Satellite

Navy Reports Orbital Data Via Minitrack

U.S. Observatories Hope For "Sputnik" Photos In 8-9 Days

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—American scientists, working with complex mechanical brains, reported varying results tonight from their efforts to establish the orbit of the Soviet earth satellite.

The Navy reported: "The Naval Research Laboratory minitrack system is now producing very satisfactory data."

"They are being fed to the IBM computer machine at the computing center ... and the quality of the resulting orbit information will enable us to give scientifically accurate minute-by-minute predictions for alerting the optical and radio tracking systems."

Moonwatch scientists at Cambridge, Mass., first reported they, too, were making good progress with their computations, but later said they had run into difficulties.

They gave two possible reasons for failure of their $2,742,000 mathematical brain, to hit upon the Red moon's orbit:

(1) The reported sightings of the satellite, from which information was fed to the machine, were not correct, or (2) the information from the sightings were not sufficiently accurate.

Timeable Worked Out
They hope from the calculations not only to trace the path of the satellite but fix its position in outer space and possibly give its exact shape.

A timetable worked out by the Navy scientists indicated the next passage of the artificial satellite over the United States would occur at about 12:11 a.m. EST tomorrow.

The Soviet sphere is shooting across this country in a southeasterly direction. It follows a fairly steady course but because the earth is turning beneath it the satellite in effect moves 1,500 miles westward with each orbit.

Within eight or nine days, American astronomical observatories may get photographs of the baby moon. These will be made during a dawn or dusk passover, periods when the satellite will reflect sunlight from below the horizon and become visible.

Calif. Station Ready
Dr. J. Allen Hynek, director of the optical tracking program for the Smithsonian Institution's Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass., said a station at South Pasadena, Calif., will be the first one ready to make pictures.

In the three days the satellite has been aloft the scientists say they have gotten a good "fix" on it and can plot its course up to a week in advance. A spokesman at the Naval Research Laboratory here said Navy researchers now know when they get the beeping signal from the satellite that their readings are precise to 1-10,000th of a second.

Meanwhile, high above the scientific uproar, the moonlet continued to whiz around the earth at 18,000 miles an hour in what the Navy scientists described as "a fairly circular orbit." Its height has been estimated to range from a minimum of 400 to 560.

Rocket Also In Orbit
The Russians announced the rocket which carried their satellite on the final stage of its journey is also in orbit. Moscow said the rocket is circling the earth at about the same altitude as the satellite but at a distance of around 620 miles.

"This distance will alter in the future," the announcement said. It did not say why, but the difference in drag between the two objects would be one reason.

There has been some uncertainty in this country about the weight of the "Sputnik" the Russian word for earth satellite. Three visiting Soviet scientists were quoted in Washington today, however, as confirming that it weighs 184 pounds.

ATTACKS PENTAGON—Dr. I. M. Levitt (above), director of Fels Planetarium, Philadelphia, yesterday said the U. S. could have launched its huge Jupiter guided missile into outer space a year ago. He said the Pentagon explained this "astounding piece of stupidity" by asserting the Jupiter was designed as a missile, not as a satellite launcher. (AP Photofax)

Syria Charges "Colonialist" Activity By U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 7 (AP)—Syria's foreign minister charged today the United States had used financial, political and military pressure to try to bring Syria under U. S. domination.

Salah Bitar told United Nations General Assembly the United States engineered subversive activities in Syria and sent the 6th Fleet to nearby waters as a threat.

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said in a statement that the Syrian foreign minister "saw fit to omit all mention of the leadership which the United States took less than a year ago in opposition to the invasion of Egypt."

Citing the history of American assistance in the Middle East, Lodge said "it is unconceivable that we should now be guilty of the type of 'colonialist' activity" Bitar charged. Lodge questioned what Bitar's "real purpose is in making such a statement."

The Syrian denied Secretary of State Dulles' charge that the shipment of Soviet arms to Syria was a menace to its neighbors, especially Turkey.

He said Syria sought Soviet arms for self-defense against Israel, which he said received "great quantities of arms" from Western powers.

He spoke after Israel's foreign minister Mrs. Golda Meir said great power rivalry is pushing the Middle East in a deadly spiral toward war.

She declared that both the Soviet Union and the Western powers are pouring arms into the Arab countries, "which openly and repeatedly express their intention of attacking and destroying Israel."

Bitar said that while Dulles singled out Syria as the instrument of so-called Soviet penetration in the earth, Dulles omitted to tell the Assembly about:

1. "Foreign interference in the internal affairs of Syria, which has taken the form of subversive activities. . . ."

2. "Economic, financial, political and military pressure used against my country to try to make it accept political subordination to the United States."

Scientists See Manned Space Ship In 6-8 Years

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—Three American scientists say it will be economically feasible within six to eight years to build and launch a manned satellite.

The proposed three-stage vehicle, which they would call "Meteor Junior," would have 27 rocket engines, would carry two to four men and would orbit around the earth, 500 miles out in space, at 16,660 miles an hour.

Each space ship would cost between five and 10 million dollars, depending upon the number produced.

The three scientists discussing the possibilities were Darrell C. Romick, head of the astronautics group in the weapons system department of the Goodyear Aircraft Corp., Akron, Ohio, and two associated Goodyear aerodynamicists, Richard E. Knight and Samuel Black.

Hoffa Denies Records Destroyed

Probers Told Papers Thrown In Incinerator

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—Senate racket probers said today a Teamster Union attorney had told them a hotel maid threw into a hotel incinerator documents relating to the election of James R. Hoffa as union president.

However, it was reported that most of the papers—which had been subpoenaed by the committee—could be recovered.

And, the probers said, when they requested the name of the maid, they were told she had suddenly died of a heart attack.

At Miami Beach, Fla., Hoffa said "I understand they found all the papers."

Hoffa also said "there's no truth to the story they were burned."

Hotel Verifies Maid's Death

The Senate Rackets Investigations Committee had not said the papers were burned, only that they were reported to have been thrown into the incinerator—but The Associated Press erroneously reported the committee had said it was told they were burned.

Also at Miami Beach, the Eden Roc Hotel reported Mrs. Jane Lockhart, 52, a day maid who had worked at the Teamster's Eden Roc office during their convention, had died of a heart attack Oct. 3 while off duty.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) of the committee said in a statement: "The committee will be interested in determining whether this incident is just another of the many strange coincidences that the committee has encountered in trying to secure Teamster records, or if it is in fact a willful defiance of the committee's authority and an effort to obstruct this investigation."

Records Subpoenaed

Last Friday, just after Hoffa won overwhelming election to succeed Dave Beck as president of the union, the Senate committee issued a subpoena for the records of the credentials committee of the union convention in Miami Beach, Fla.

McClellan had said earlier that the committee had received evidence that many of the convention delegates were not chosen in accordance with provisions of the union's constitution.

Also, a group of rank and file Teamster members in New York had gone into court in a futile last-minute effort to delay the election, contending it had been rigged in favor of Hoffa.

Satellite Signal Temporarily Lost

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—The Naval Research Laboratory reported tonight that the signal of the Soviet satellite had been temporarily lost by the minitrack network checking its orbit.

The laboratory said the signal had been coming in strong and clear about 6:40 p.m. EDT and then was suddenly shut off.

Som. Pt., Md., reported at 8:33 p.m. that it had heard the satellite's signals again.

There was no indication what caused the signal to be temporarily lost by the minitrack stations.

scored the only run of the game; Lew Burdette, who shut out the Yankees on seven hits, and Wes Covington, who made a sensational catch of Gil McDougald's bid for a home run in the fourth inning. (Details on sports pages) (AP Photofax)

Russia Reports New Hydrogen Bomb Tested

MOSCOW, Oct. 7 (AP)—The Soviet Union announced tonight it has tested a new type H-bomb. In the midst of jubilation over Russia's earth satellite, the official announcement from Tass agency said:

"In connection with plans of experimental work for the creation and perfection of atomic and hydrogen weapons, in the Soviet Union on 6 Oct. 1957 there took place a test of a mighty hydrogen warhead of new construction."

"In the interests of safety of the population and participants in the experiment, the explosion took place at a great height."

Japan's Central Meteorological Observatory first reported the explosion. It said the bomb was larger than 10 megatons, representing a force equivalent to 10 million tons of TNT, or about the same as a U.S. bomb exploded at Bikini Atoll in 1956. The Japanese said the blast took place in eastern Siberia.

Sometimes Soviet atomic blasts are reported in other countries, but not announced in Moscow. Today's announcement supposedly sought to take advantage of interest whetted by the recent firing of a ballistic missile and Friday's satellite launching.

(A Pentagon official speculated that the Russians had been trying to squeeze hydrogen bombs into smaller and more practical packages—one of the aims of U.S. experiments. Two years ago U.S. workers brought the size down so it became practical to install an H-bomb in the nose of a long-range missile.)

Pravda noted today that it took the satellite only 16 minutes to whip from New York to Moscow. It said this means the United States will have to change its tune in foreign affairs.

Ex-Russian Agent Believed Poisoned

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 7 (AP)—The U.S. Army Hospital reported today it suspects a former Russian agent was secretly poisoned here although medical tests still do not support this theory.

Col. Frank Y. Leaver, the hospital's commanding officer, said he believes Nikolai E. Khokhlov's illness "is due to poisoning but this has not been proved by toxicological studies."

Khokhlov was admitted to the hospital Sept. 27 after he came down with an illness which his associates, officials of the anti-Soviet National Alliance of Russian Solidarists (NTS), said was brought on by a poison plot allegedly engineered by revenge-seeking Soviet agents.

Fitted with a fourth stage, the "Meteor Junior" would be capable of still deeper penetrations into the unknown, including flights to and possibly landings on the moon.

Electronic "Brain" Fails To Chart Path Of Man-Made Moon

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 7 (AP)—Information gathered from moonwatch scientists in Alaska and Australia failed to provide the orbit of the Russian earth satellite tonight when fed into a giant electronic computer.

Insufficient or inaccurate data was blamed for the failure by Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory.

Dr. Whipple told a news conference that one of the three observations—two in Alaska and one in Australia—"may have been in error."

He said that one of the sightings reported by American scientists in Alaska was made under "extremely difficult circumstances"—through a hole in the clouds.

"I have sent my computing staff home to get some sleep," the scientist said.

The information fed to the computer was obtained from two reported sightings of the satellite by American scientists in Alaska and one by Australian moonwatchers.

Yugos Unlikely To Give Zhukov Big Amity Show

BELGRADE, Oct. 7 (AP)—Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, the Soviet Union's top-ranking soldier, arrives in Yugoslavia tomorrow in a new gesture of Russian respect for this maverick member of the Communist family.

Zhukov, defense minister of the Soviet Union and member of the Soviet Communist party's ruling Presidium, is getting the same sort of correct treatment accorded Yugoslavia's Defense Minister Gen. Ivan Goshnjak in Moscow this summer. But Yugoslavia's regime does not appear to be going out of its way to turn the visit into any spectacular show of amity.

Zhukov, the Russians' hero of Berlin and a powerful influence in Moscow's policies, will sail into the Yugoslav port of Zadar, north of Split, aboard the Soviet cruiser Kuibyshev. He will be met there by Yugoslav military and naval brass, but there has been no announcement yet of just who will be in the welcoming party.

From Zadar, Zhukov will be escorted to the nearby military airport at Zemunik to board a special army plane for Belgrade. It is expected that in Belgrade he will be met by Goshnjak, this country's leading military man. There is no indication Tito will meet him.

Zhukov arrives here at a time when Soviet prestige is rising, both because of obvious successes of Soviet policy in the East-West cold war, particularly in the Middle East, and the spectacular Soviet announcement that the U.S.S.R. has beaten the United States in launching an earth satellite.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Observatory, said there is a possibility the sightings were that of the third stage of the rocket used to launch the satellite—instead of the satellite itself.

However, he said that even if the sightings were that of the third stage of a fairly accurate orbit of the satellite could be determined. The third stage also was reported flying in outer space near the satellite.

Dr. Whipple said he expected the computer to give data which the Russians may not have.

"I doubt that the Russians know the minimum distance and maximum distance (of the satellite) from earth," he said.

He said he based his statement on the fact that the Russians have not announced the minimum life of the orbit in space.

Carey Predicts Teamster Ouster From AFL-CIO

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 7 (AP)—James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the AFL-CIO, said tonight expulsion of the Teamsters from the AFL-CIO is inevitable.

The Teamsters will be outlawed "from the house of labor almost gladly because we know that the democratic labor movement will be stronger, healthier because of the absence of the Hoffas and Becks," Carey said in a speech prepared for delivery at the Catholic Conference on Industrial and Social Relations.

"We are going to cut Hoffa and his corruption out of the democratic labor movement as sharply and finally as we cut out the Communists just seven years ago," he said.

Pleven Trying To Form New French Government

PARIS, Oct. 7 (AP)—Ex-Premier Rene Pleven undertook today to try and form the next French government—if the parties promise to let him govern for a year.

In the National Assembly—which has made and broken 23 Cabinets since World War II—deputies were saying Pleven would fail.

Taking up the challenge after Socialist Guy Mollet gave up, Pleven made two conditions:

That the parties agree to a 12-month political truce so his new government could tackle the nation's desperate financial and economic problems—and

That all parties—except the extremes of right and left—should join his Cabinet and share its responsibilities.

His proposed program provides for revision of the constitution to

Satellite Casts Shadow Over Disarm Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 7 (AP)—The United States said today it is considering what effect the Soviet space satellite will have on world disarmament "and undoubtedly we will have proposals to make at some future time."

It was apparent that the Soviet Union's artificial moon was casting its shadow over disarmament talks at the United Nations—the current arena for attempts to reach East-West agreement.

The United States and other friendly powers are preparing a resolution for presentation to the 82-nation U.N. General Assembly based on Western arms proposals. These include recommendations for setting up an inspection system to insure that sending of objects through outer space "will be exclusively for peaceful and scientific purposes."

A U.S. delegation spokesman, asked to comment on a Moscow suggestion that the new Soviet artificial moon would mean a change in U.S. foreign policy, said "That sounds like a bit of moonshine to me."

He added that he saw no signs of a revision in the U.S. stand on disarmament—"We think we have a good position and we are sorry the Russians don't go along with us."

The spokesman added that the United States certainly would consider the problem posed by sending objects through outer space, but had nothing to offer now in the way of specific proposals.

The Western disarmament resolution has been delayed in presentation to the General Assembly, but U.S. sources said this has no connection with the Soviet satellite.

The United States hopes now to have the resolution ready by Thursday with approximately 20 sponsors. The delay is caused by two or three nations who have not yet given their reply as to co-sponsorship, the sources said.

Street Fighting Again Erupts In Polish Capital

WARSAW, Oct. 7 (AP)—Riot police charged a crowd of whistling youngsters outside the Warsaw Palace of Culture tonight. It was the fifth straight night of street fighting in this capital of Communist Poland.

About 100 police scattered the crowd with clubs after a teen-age gang set fire to a wooden flower kiosk.

Forty persons were reported arrested.

Riot squad men with Alsatian dogs stood guard at the intersection of Jerozolimska and Marshalowska streets, a focal point of the clashes.

Tonight's crowd numbered around 1,000. It was smaller than those of previous evenings and contained a high portion of the rowdies the Poles call "chuligan-ski."

Communist authorities whipped up a press campaign demanding severe sentences for the demonstrators.

No totals of arrests or casualties have been issued. But official accounts said about 150 persons were detained Saturday night, six students were still held from Thursday's clash, and many arrests were made Sunday night.

Accusation Vulgar, Says White House

Governor Reports GIs Invade Girls' Dressing Rooms

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 7 (AP)—Gov. Orval Faibus said today—met a prompt denial from the White House—that federal troops have invaded the privacy of girls' dressing rooms while enforcing racial integration at Central High School.

"Completely untrue and also completely vulgar," said James C. Hagerly, White House press secretary, of Faibus's assertions.

School Supt. Virgil T. Blossom said "The federal troops are not following the girls into the dressing rooms."

Asst. Supt. Fred Graham branded the charge as "ridiculous."

The governor had said he based his statement on complaints from parents.

He called it wholly unwarranted to have federal soldiers accompanying the girls when they change clothes for gym or other class activities.

The governor suggested the White House send in a detachment of WACS if it thinks such close surveillance is necessary to integrate nine Negro students into Central High.

Letter To Walker Unopened

The governor outlined his complaint in a letter to Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, in charge of regular Army paratroopers and federalized Arkansas National Guardsmen who are enforcing integration at the school.

In Washington, Hagerly said Walker returned the letter to Faibus unopened because it was addressed to "The commander of the occupation forces."

Walker himself said in a statement issued here:

"The soldiers on duty at Central High School are precluded by orders from activities which might be subject to criticism and as described by the governor. My information indicates very definitely that the staff and faculty at the high school have received neither complaint nor report on the allegations. This headquarters has received no complaint or reports of criticism from any source."

'Earmarks Of Desperation'

Secretary of the Army Brucker also issued a statement in Washington saying Faibus's letter "has all the earmarks of desperation and is an unworthy attempt to defame our American soldiers."

Also in Washington, Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark) lunched at the White House with Sherman Adams, No. 1 aide to President Eisenhower. Afterwards, Hays said he thinks conditions in Little Rock are rapidly approaching the stage at which troops can be withdrawn.

"I think they are rapidly approaching it...surely, we'll get a happy ending to this," he said.

Hays did not attempt to predict when the troops will be withdrawn, however. Early in the integration deadlock, Hays served without success as a mediator between the White House and Faibus. This time, he said, he wasn't asked to do anything about the situation.

San Marino Forces' Disarming Forecast

SAN MARINO, Oct. 7 (AP)—An anti-Communist leader in divided San Marino said tonight his side and the rival Red regime intend to take the arms away from their volunteer soldiers.

Federico Bigi, unofficial prime minister of the provisional "White" regime, said the disarming of the two volunteer militia forces was discussed at negotiations between the two factions.

His claim that negotiations had opened between the two camps came at a news conference at which he claimed it would be only a matter of days before the Communists would surrender.

He said both sides had given "assurances" during the negotiations that they would disarm their rival groups of volunteers, who have made rifles and submachine guns a common sight in this tiny republic of 13,000. Bigi did not say when the disarming would begin.

The Communists were not available for immediate comment.

Bigi held his news conference at the abandoned steel factory which has been his government's headquarters since the teapot revolution here erupted a week ago. The factory is in a corner of San Marino's 38-square-mile area only a few yards from the Italian border.

The old Red regime, which had ruled San Marino since the end of World War II, controls the rest of this republic and its government buildings in the village of San Marino. Detentions cut the Communists' parliamentary majority and the anti-Communists set up their own government. The Reds ordered elections for Nov. 3 and said earlier they would continue to rule until then.

"We expect to take over soon, maybe in the next two days, unless Italian Communists intervene," Bigi told the news conference. "And their intervention is improbable."

Clipper Lands Safely After Turning Back

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7 (AP)—A troubled Pan American Clipper, which turned back to Honolulu today when 2½ hours on its way to San Francisco, landed safely at 5:07 p. m. Pacific Standard Time, which has been his government's headquarters since the teapot revolution here erupted a week ago. The factory is in a corner of San Marino's 38-square-mile area only a few yards from the Italian border.

The big plane, Flight 834 with 34 persons aboard, reported an over-speeding propeller. Capt. Arthur O. Eichler, of Los Altos, Calif., called for a Coast Guard escort after turning back.

U.S. Completes Longest Series Of Atom Tests

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev., Oct. 7 (AP)—America's nuclear scientists, seeking to perfect an arsenal of small weapons for air defense, today completed their longest and most varied series of tests.

The 24th blast of the summer experiments was fired at 5 a. m. from a balloon tethered 500 feet over Yucca Flat at the Nevada proving grounds.

Early risers in much of the Far West saw—possibly for the last time—a now familiar sight: The entire sky set aflame for an instant by the bomb's flash. Some distant points later heard the rumble of the relatively small shot.

The series started May 28 amid worldwide criticism of atomic weapons testing. Critics said testing puts in the atmosphere radioactive particles which ultimately could reach a harmful level.

Atomic Energy Commission scientists minimized this aspect. In their final statement today they said:

"Thorough instrumentation of site disclosed that no populated place received fallout radiation up to the established low safety limit."

"Scientific data was gathered to aid in solving the problems of making weapons of greatly reduced fallout and of more effective designs for weapons to include in the air defense system."

The emphasis on fallout control and air defense led to several firsts in this series. Among them:

The first test of a weapon suspended from a captive balloon. This method cuts fallout because less dust is sucked up from the desert and contaminated. There were 13 such shots.

The first underground test. Fallout was eliminated by shooting off the bomb at the end of a winding tunnel under a mesa.

The first air-to-air rocket test, in which a rocket with a nuclear warhead was fired from a plane at a mythical midair target.

Bloodhound Fails Field Trial Test By Getting Lost

CHATHAM TOWNSHIP, N. J., Oct. 7 (AP)—Edward Simon took his bloodhound into the woods yesterday to give him a workout at tracking and it took a posse of police with another bloodhound to get them out.

Simon, 42, had gone into the Great Swamp with the dog to prepare him for a field trial. When he didn't return at nightfall his wife called police.

State police joined police from several communities in an 11-hour search through the vast boggy area.

They finally located Simon when he answered their shouts. Both he and the dog were fine.

But Simon didn't say if he'd still enter his dog in the trial.

Police Probe Is Completed

BALTIMORE, Oct. 7 (AP)—State police investigating a report of immoral actions by two high ranking Baltimore police officials handed their findings to the attorney general today.

The next step is to decide if the evidence should be the basis of action by the grand jury action or city police.

The decision will be made by Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert and J. Harold Grady, Baltimore prosecuting attorney. An aide said it probably will take them a day or two.

The two ranking officials of the Rackets Division, Inspector Clarence O. Forrester and Acting Capt. Hyman Goldstein, have been suspended and a sergeant committed suicide since the state police investigation started.

Forrester and Goldstein were suspended for refusing to obey orders to appear for questioning by the investigators.

The investigation completed today concerned only a report that two officers of the Rackets Division established a prostitute in an apartment and had immoral relations with her. In the course of the probe, the state police reportedly came across other signs of graft and corruption in the city police department.

Boy Shot To Death

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Oct. 7 (AP)—A 14-year-old boy was shot and killed today as he watched the World Series on television in a house trailer at nearby Perryman.

Police said William Foreman of Perryman and another boy, 14-year-old Joseph W. Moxham, also of Perryman, were watching the baseball game in a trailer at Witherspoon's Trailer Camp.

Moxham was playing with a 20-gauge shotgun, police said. The gun went off and the bullet struck Foreman in the chest and forearm.

Ives' $100,000 Yacht Suffers Heavy Damage

REHOBOTH BEACH, Del., Oct. 7 (AP)—The Black Spoonbill, singer Burl Ives' $100,000 yacht which was driven aground Sunday during a heavy storm, was "high and dry" and heavily damaged today.

Chief William Parker of the Coast Guard station at Indian River inlet said the damage had not been estimated, but was extensive.

"She's in one piece," he said. But Parker said the yacht's aftermast was broken in half and lying across the cabin and the rigging was tangled from stern to stern.

The 62-foot motorized sailing ketch was driven onto the beach and battered by high winds and a rough surf for about six hours until the storm passed. Six men aboard waded ashore. Four were injured.

Friends of Ives, they were sailing the Black Spoonbill from New York to Florida where the folk singer planned to board the craft.

Dr. William Eisenbrandt, 51, of New York City, who suffered a broken jaw, was released from Beebe General Hospital at nearby Lewes today. He left immediately for the home of his brother, Frederick H. Eisenbrandt, of 7102 Bristol Rd., Baltimore, where he planned to recuperate.

The other three injured crewmen also were released today.

There are about four times as many passenger cars as trucks on the highways of the United States.

Grave Questions Ahead Supreme Court Launches Fall Term

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—In solemn pomp, the Supreme Court reassembled in its white marble home today to open a new nine-month term.

Certain to come are historic decisions on racial relations and Communist activities. In all, about 800 cases await consideration and decision.

But for today, the nine men in their long black robes sat only for 19 minutes to admit 49 lawyers who came from 14 states asking permission to practice before the top court of the land.

The lawyers took their oaths in two groups. Then without preliminaries the justices rose and left while the crier cried: "The honorable court is now adjourned until Monday next at 12 o'clock."

Next week the court will hand down orders and start hearing arguments on new cases.

The court is expected to act this month on an appeal involving Virginia Pupil Placement Act, which is part of the state's pattern for keeping its schools segregated.

Today, however, Atty. Gen. Kenneth C. Patty of Virginia and counsel for the Norfolk and Newport News school boards asked the high tribunal to defer action.

The Virginia lawyers said the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia expects to hear arguments this week on a case brought by Theodore Thomas Delebio against the Fairfax County School Board Act. A decision by the Virginia court may come in late November, the attorneys said.

Student Denies He And Annette Dionne Will Marry Friday

MONTREAL, Oct. 7 (AP)—Cecile Dionne may become the first of the Dionne quintuplets to wed after all.

Olivia Dionne, father of the four survivors, reported in North Bay, Ont., today that Annette and Germain Allard, 22, a Montreal University student, planned to marry in a private ceremony at Montreal Friday.

But Allard denied it, saying "It won't be Friday."

He said in an interview he hopes to marry Annette, but they are not even formally engaged as he is still going to school.

The four sisters—Annette, Cecile, Marie and Yvonne—are now 23. Cecile is scheduled to become the bride of Philippe Langlois, 26, a Canadian Broadcasting Co. technician, in late November.

Charges Dismissed Against Newsmen Who Rapped Judge

LEONARDTOWN, Md., Oct. 7 (AP)—Charges against two newsmen, spawned by their editorial criticism of a judge, were dismissed today. But the judge's boss, who threw out the charges, censured the newsmen.

Chief Judge John B. Gray, Jr., of the Seventh Judicial Circuit, said there is a line a newspaper cannot legally cross in criticism of a court. But he said Publisher Sheridan Fahnestock and Managing Editor Alfred Toombs of the weekly Enterprise at nearby Lexington Park, Md., did not cross that line or even reach it.

Two articles and an editorial in the Enterprise critical of Judge Philip H. Dorsey, Jr., "in what is poor taste in accuracy they were, did not amount to a clear and present danger to the administration of justice," he said.

"In view of that conclusion," said Judge Gray, "I think it is idle to compel the defendants to stand trial and the motion (for dismissal) is granted."

The Enterprise's criticism of the appointment of two boards of property review for St. Marys County by the circuit court was the basis for the charges. St. Marys is the only county in the State having two of the boards, which review disputes between property owners and the State Roads Commission over property needed for right-of-way.

On one occasion, the Enterprise said: "Just because St. Marys County suddenly came up with two boards—apparently the only county in the State to be doubly

Thieves Steal $6,390 In Stamps, Postcards

BALTIMORE, Oct. 7 (AP)—Burglars who apparently hid out in a branch post office until the coast was clear, stole $6,390 in stamps and postcards.

Postal officials said they found several raincoats in the basement, indicating the thieves hid there for some time before attempting to force open three safes. They failed to get into the safes but got stamps in postcards from some metal boxes.

Loot in the weekend burglary included postage stamps, postcards, U.S. savings stamps and migratory waterfowl hunting stamps.

Police found no visible signs of forced entry. They said the thieves left through a basement door which had to be opened from the inside.

Girl Who Swerved Car Toward Cops Sentenced

BALTIMORE, Oct. 7 (AP)—A 17-year-old Pennsylvania girl accused of swerving a car toward five Baltimore policemen was sentenced to not more than a year in prison today.

The wild pursuit of Shirley Ann Dickel, of Lancaster, Pa., ended last Aug. 16 when a ricocheting police bullet hit her in the shoulder.

The small blonde girl was convicted in Youth Court last week on five assault charges. Chief Judge Emory H. Niles sentenced her today to five concurrent one-year sentences in the State Reformatory for Women.

Judge Niles said it was fortunate no one was killed during the 90-mile-an-hour chase and that probation in the case was impossible.

The judge said he received a state psychiatrist's report on the young woman but he did not comment on details in the report. The state said the girl assaulted four policemen by swerving toward them as they tried to flag her down. She denied this but admitted she swerved her car in an effort to prevent a motorcycle patrolman from overtaking her. The chase began just northeast of Baltimore and ended in the city.

Bequest To Hospital

TOWSON, Md., Oct. 7 (AP)—The will of the late Mrs. William F. Cochran, widow of a nationally-known Baltimore philanthropist, bequeathed $10,000 to Union Memorial Hospital.

Brooches found in ancient tombs have fastenings resembling the modern safety pin.

How good are you at bringing home the bacon?

Your family may consider you a model husband and provider. Your boss may say you're his right arm. But if your take-home dollars aren't as numerous as you'd like them to be... maybe you've been neglecting a good opportunity. Take this little quiz and see.

It's possible to earn an income from more than one business without holding down more than one job.

True. Plenty of people nowadays work in one business and earn a second income from others, simply by owning stocks or bonds listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Owning stock makes you part-owner of the company. You share in any profits that may be paid as dividends... and if the business grows your money may grow, too. Or you can buy bonds and be paid interest for the use of your money.

Investing is only for people with a lot of money.

False. Two out of three share-owners today have incomes under $7500 a year... many, under $5000. But nobody should invest a penny without first being sure family expenses are covered and there's money for emergencies.

You have to be an expert to invest.

False. But you do need facts. Never fall for tips or rumors. Remember, security prices can go down as well as up, like the price of anything else... and a company may not always pay dividends or interest.

You have to know somebody in the company to get facts about it.

False. All you have to do is find a good broker. Make sure he's with a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. He'll be glad to give you facts you'll want to know about companies you're interested in. It's his job to help you buy and sell. He'll be happy to sit down with you and talk over investments to meet your needs... either stocks or bonds or both... and from time to time you can ask him to look over your securities with you.

I'd need a big lump sum to get started.

False. For as little as $40 every three months, you can buy stocks on the Monthly Investment Plan... a convenient method of investing regularly on a pay-as-you-go basis. Your broker will be happy to tell you more about it... and ask him for our helpful booklet, "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS." It tells about the Monthly Investment Plan and gives the records of over 300 stocks on the Exchange that have paid dividends every year for 25 to 109 years. This interesting little booklet is yours absolutely free... just ask your broker or mail this coupon. Isn't it time you looked into the possibility of putting your money to work to give you a second income?

Early Mailing Urged

The Post Department advises that Christmas packages for service men should be mailed between November 1 and of an easterly "Y" track over November 20 to insure delivery.

Street Car References Removed From City Code

The Mayor and Council acted yesterday to remove references to "street cars" from its ordinances — about 25 years after the last car operated here.

Actually, the ordinance approved by council deletes Sections 22, 38 and 41 of Chapter 14 pertaining to the requirements for fenders on electric cars, lights for such cars and the speed at which they might travel.

The Grand Jury of the April term of Allegany County Circuit Court had suggested that the Mayor and Council update its ordinance in regards to railroad crossings and the action yesterday is the result.

However, City Attorney Thomas B. Finan said in a letter to State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher that it is not the opinion of council that the section pertaining to the time allowed for blocking crossings is obsolete.

He also referred to other grand jury recommendations as follows: (1) Notices have been sent to merchants by the offices of Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz concerning keeping pavements clean and not sweeping debris in streets; and (2) public discussions have been held on revision of the curfew law.

Buchholtz said in regards to the merchants' sidewalk suggestion, that his department had obtained from the property owner or occupant of premises a signed statement that the notice had been received. He said he is holding these signatures and, if called, will present them to the jury to be included in its record.

Council also approved three proclamations. One designates this as "Fire Prevention Week"; another this week "Employ The Physically Handicapped Week" and a third October 23 as "United States Day."

Mayor Roy W. Eves was authorized to execute a deed to the B&O Railroad for construction of an easterly "Y" track over Main Street owned by Gay Street

Greene Street Traffic Light Complaint Made Registration Closed

A Greene Street resident suggested that traffic lights erected in connection with the new Cumberland-Ridgeley bridge be realigned and signs erected to direct motorists in an effort to reduce confusion.

Richard A. Porter of 28 Greene Street said, in effect, lights are difficult to see and indecision of motorists over what direction to go creates traffic congestion.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan told Porter that he agreed there should be signs and added: "The only way to get things done is to force it on us. I'm glad you brought it up."

John J. Mitchell, 118 Winton Place, also commented on the need for clarification measures on the Greene Street lights.

And on another matter, Mitchell said the Baltimore Street subway is not only being used as a subway but a toilet as well. Told that the Street Department had cleaned the subway four times last month, Mitchell said the odor of it is offensive and there is dirt and filth on the walls.

Band, Orchestra, Choral Coordination Urged

A study which would bring cultural programs such as the Choral Society, symphony orchestra and Municipal Band under the Recreation Department has been made by Finance Commissioner John J. Long.

Long, emphasizing that he favored continuance of the activities, said he believed from the financial viewpoint the groups should be included in the Recreation Department budget and such a recommendation should be made for the next administration in 1958.

The band is set up by city ordinance but the other two are given cash contributions annually from the contingent fund. Yesterday for example, the Mayor and Council approved a $200 contribution for 1957-58 to the Choral Society. It also approved the quarterly allotment to the band of $750.

The move, Long contends, would "tie the budget closer together."

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said he would meet with the recreation director, Gene Mason, and then make a report to council.

Council had a mostly routine session yesterday which included reading of regular month-end reports.

City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery said office receipts amounted to $1,151.60 including $959.85 from bingo tax and recreation admission tax on bingo; and $166.75 from the Sunday movie tax.

In a report of receipt and disbursements, Long reported the following October 1 balances: General, $89,259.78; water operative, $175,185.24; general improvement bonds, $83,700.57; sewer bonds of 1931, $3,452.65; and sewage disposal plant, $49,446.93.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan noted police made 1,040 arrests with fines of $1,289. The Fire Department received 44 calls but fire damage was minor.

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards said his department renewed 12 service lines, extended 541 feet of main line; installed 34 meters and received applications for 16 taps and 26 meters.

The Street Department, according to Buchholtz, cleaned 956 paved streets, 43 alleys, 60 catch basins and the Baltimore Street subway four times. Holes were filled in 12 blacktopped streets, 9 concrete streets; 9 were graded, rolled and oiled; four received light surface treatment; and one was graded, rolled and blacktopped.

The bidding:
North Pass South Pass
West Pass East 1 heart

2 no trump Pass Pass
Opening lead: Jack of diamonds.

Declarer appeared to have made a careless play in today's hand. However, had East not been so quick to look upon it as a slip, the defense could have fared much better.

The final contract was reasonable enough. South did not have the 19 high card points required for his two no trump rebid but the promoted value of his spade holding plus the two tens compensated for the missing point.

After winning the opening lead, declarer was aware that he could set up four spade tricks, which would make the success of the contract depend upon finding West with the king of hearts. The spades could be established by playing the queen and then overtaking the jack with dummy's king.

On further analysis, however, South hit upon a better play. He led the queen of spades which East refused, and followed with the spade jack but did not overtake it in dummy. East, observing all the remaining spades in full view again refused the trick in order to shut declarer out of the suit. South now played to the ace of hearts and back, driving out the king of that suit and

● France's Peril And The United Nations

It is becoming increasingly apparent daily that France suffered a major disaster in the rejection by her General Assembly of a plan that might have ended the war in Algeria. That plan may have been her last chance. Its rejection may be followed by the ignominious loss of Algeria and an end to French aspirations to remain a world power.

It is clear that as long as the Communists have 25 per cent of the votes in the chamber, they possess what almost amounts to an absolute veto power against any measure that might restore their native land, "the sick man of Europe," to national health.

One Frenchman out of four votes Communist, though it is contended that this is largely a protest vote. If it is not their intention to vote for the destruction of France or the mortgaging of its future to the malignant policies of a hostile foreign power, that is nevertheless the effect.

The immediate effect of this vote in the assembly could be French defeat in the United Nations. If the Algerian plan had been adopted, France had intended to seek UN support for it. Now a resolution either condemning France outright or commenting critically on her failure to respond to Algerian aspirations may pass.

A contributing factor to this unhappy situation is of course the unstable French political machinery. But even that system might function, after a fashion, if one-fourth of the General Assembly were not in the hands of the enemies of France.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Vulnerability

Every country has its particular kind of strength or it would not exist at all. Politicians have a way of limiting their discussions to strength which sounds good to the multitude but which, if accepted without criticism, can lead to disaster. The critic is never too popular in a period of inflation, both of money and the ego, because he annoys, he irritates, he even frightens those who dare not face tomorrow.

Senator Harry F. Byrd has for years been calling attention to the dangerous tax load that the American people must carry. At the end of last year, the debt load amounted to:

	Billion
"Corporate	$253
Private	213
Federal	277
State and local	50
* Total	793

"This is an increase of $200 billion, or about 33 per cent, in 4 years.

"With only temporary exceptions to the rule, federal expenditures have been constantly rising, and in recent years—since 1954—the greatest increases have been in strictly domestic-civilian programs: not military and foreign aid. State and local governments have been following suit. Combined federal, state, and local expenditures from tax revenue, miscellaneous receipts, and borrowing are running to a total of more than $132 billion annually."

In addition to the $275,000,000,000 of Federal debt, there are an additional $250,000,000,000 of contingent liabilities which may become an actual charge on the Treasury under certain circumstances. In a word, the citizen faces the prospect and possibility that his government's indebtedness could amount to $525,000,000,000, according to Senator Byrd.

At the same time this indebtedness has been developing, consumers' prices have been steadily marching upward since 1940. Consumers' prices have increased by more than 100 per cent since 1939 and the dollar has declined by more than 50 per cent and the loss is continuing.

Considering the vulnerability of the United States, this inflationary condition can be devastating if it continues to grow worse. To ignore it is criminal. To take the wrong steps to end it because the right steps are politically embarrassing is outrageously cowardly. To tell the people not to buy what they need and to postpone buying what they want while the government continues to be profligately wasteful is hypocritical.

The first step to economic sanity must be the release of the American people from the war budget which continues to afflict us. Are we at war? That question must be answered at the polls sooner or later because if we are not at war, we need not continue to pay war-time taxes; if we are at war, how can we subsidize enemy or neutral countries? The Eisenhower Administration has great difficulty realizing that the course of history does not wait nor is it made in any one country.

More and more, it is the interplay of universal forces which starting in one area influence all the world. For instance, what we see in China today started during the Taiping Rebellion (1850-1864) and is a reflex of the first impact of Western Christianity upon the Chinese mind. Its end result is the curious brand of Marxism which became the philosophy of the rationalistic, pragmatic Mao-Tse-tung who studied philosophy with John Dewey's pupil, Hu Shih, at Peking University.

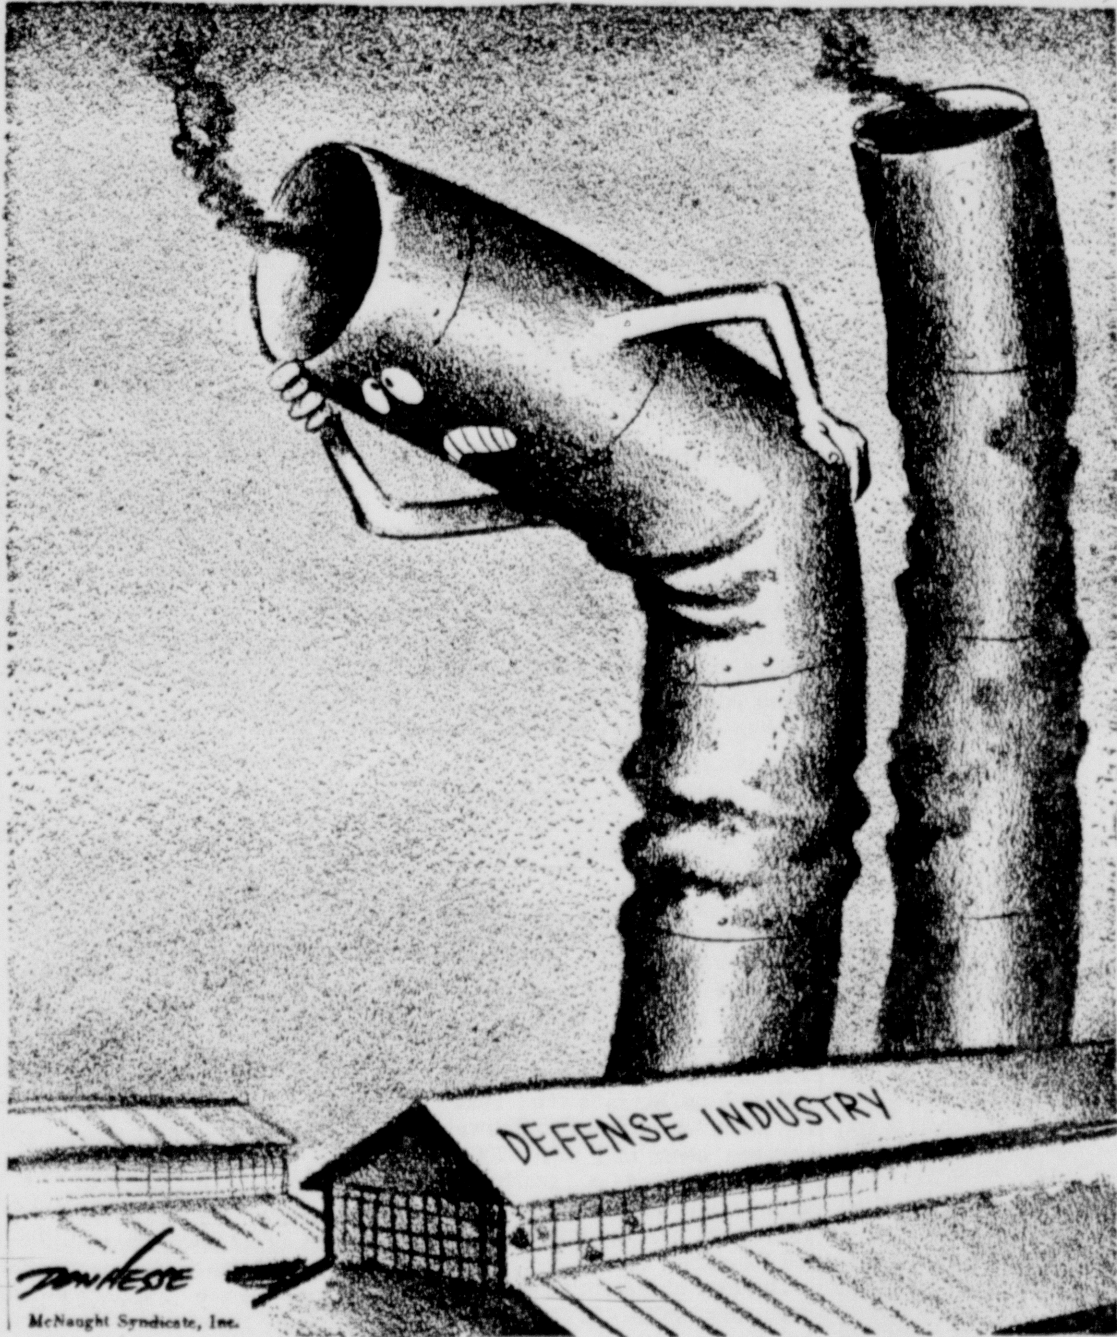

When we deal with vulnerabilities, we must note that while our economy is becoming dangerously inflated and our people are suffering from political apathy, our educational system is not producing the inquiring intelligence necessary to live in our hard world. Henry L. Roberts makes the point:

"... It is chastening but useful to realize that virtually every new weapon of the Second World War was the outgrowth of European, not American, thinking. To be sure, we have displayed our customary ability in organizing, applying and mass-producing the products of this thinking, but a roster of the personnel connected not only with the Manhattan project, but with the subsequent development of the thermonuclear weapons will show the extent of our dependence upon foreign scientific thought and technology..."

Yet we have had universal compulsory education for a century and we have a greater high school and college registration than any country. Where have we gone wrong? Are we so hard-headed and practical that we fail in the realm of theory upon which all science is based? Are we so busy counting with machines that we do not produce mathematicians? These questions concern our survival.

Shrinking Pains

The Little Rock Crisis And Civil War History

WASHINGTON.

By Stewart Alsop

The policy of the Eisenhower administration, as of this writing, seems to be to depend on the passage of time and local pressures for reason and moderation to heal the crisis in Little Rock. In White House circles, Orval Faubus is often compared to Joseph R. McCarthy, and it is said: "We'll give Faubus enough rope to hang himself."

Perhaps there is nothing else to do. But it may take a lot of time and a lot of rope. And it is at least possible that the situation in Little Rock and throughout the South may get a lot worse instead of better, the longer Federal troops remain there.

Sometimes a small episode, which seems insignificant at the time, takes on a certain meaning in retrospect. Such an episode was a conversation this reporter had in Little Rock, with a big, shirt-sleeved man on the fringes of a crowd around the school house. He had a very Southern accent, and he talked like a great many other people in Little Rock. "Would you want your kids being forced by Federal bayonets into a school with a bunch of half-savages?" he asked.

Then he suddenly let down his guard, as sometimes happens in a conversation between strangers who are unlikely to meet again. "Look," he said, and his accent changed, "I came here from Wisconsin eight years ago, and hell, I went to school with a couple of Negroes and it didn't bother me. But down here, brother, you talk like the rest of the people about this thing, and you think like them too, or one day you wake up dead."

This small episode serves to suggest something of the dangers involved, if the crisis in Little Rock drags on indefinitely. The extraordinary depth of feeling on the racial issue in the South is consistently underestimated outside the South. In a way, this is natural.

Consider a few statistics. The proportion of Negroes in Washington, D. C., which has integrated without major trouble, is over 35 per cent. The proportion in Gary, Indiana, which has been integrated for years, is almost 30 per cent. The proportion of Negroes in Little Rock is only 23 per cent. So why do the people of Little Rock feel so much more passionately about racial issues than the people of Washington, D. C., or Gary, Indiana?

There are many reasons, of course, psychological and economic, but the historical reasons must not be overlooked. The preoccupation with the Civil War and the Reconstruction era in the South tends to astonish or amuse Northern visitors. Yet it is an important political fact, which must be reckoned with.

Gary, Indiana, after all, was never occupied by Federal troops who used force to put uneducated Negroes and unscrupulous Northern adventurers into positions of power. In the Reconstruction era, the slogan of the Little Rock "Republican," the organ of the occupation forces, was: "We'll make Arkansas Republican or a waste of howling wilderness."

Read the history of Reconstruction, and you'll find the phrase "Federal bayonets" used in 1870 in precisely the same bitterly symbolic way as it is used today in Little Rock. Such phrases ("Northern press" is another) have much the same instinctive, emotional connotations as the

A New And Effective Treatment For Acne

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

were reported in 95 per cent of a group of 116 patients.

The mixture is not an overnight cure and must be used for weeks before maximum benefit is obtained. It has the additional advantage of being invisible, greaseless, and stainless.

This lotion competes with various time honored salves containing sulfur or resorcin. These chemicals reduce oiliness and soften the skin. Young people are prone to develop an oily complexion, and the pores become plugged by the greasy material. The speck of dirt that clings to the greasy plug is the blackhead.

In time, the grease gland opening is irritated and the cells lining the entrance thicken and swell, trapping the oily material in the pore. A pimple is in the making when infection occurs. Anything that reduces oiliness and prevents plugging of the opening helps keep the skin soft and clear.

Many acne victims can do without these salves and lotions. Applying hot, moist towels to the skin helps open the pores. The oily material then is washed away with soap and water. Finish by rinsing the face in cold water. Two or three such treatments a day are helpful.

When acne is severe, the cleansing treatment is followed by the application of one of the remedies mentioned previously. It also is important to discourage oiliness by avoiding greasy food, rich pastries, and chocolate.

Medicines containing bromides ought to be avoided for the same reason. There is no harm in squeezing out blackheads, provided the hands and face are cleansed first and a comedo extractor is used. Out of door activity and sunshine are complexion aids.

World Series More Important To U.S. Envoy Than Revolt In Cuba

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — One of the most important countries to the USA is Cuba. It's important geographically; buys more goods from the USA than England or France, is vital as a supplier of sugar.

Recently Cuba has been in the throes of political turmoil. Things have not been too stable. Revolt has flared in parts of the island. It's a moment when the United States should be keeping a watchful eye on what is happening.

At this crucial time, however, where do you think the American Ambassador to Cuba, Earl Smith, was busying himself?

Ambassador Smith was very busy, far from Havana, watching the World Series.

It's no secret that the election of Jimmy Hoffa as head of the Teamsters was a deep disappointment to the forces of clean unionism inside the AFL-CIO, including George Meany. But it's supposed to be a secret that Meany had counted on two powerful executives inside the Teamsters to stand up against Hoffa. They were Einar Mohn, former right-hand man to Dave Beck, and John English, secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters. Both chickened.

Here is the private conversation between Hoffa and Mohn which took place just before Mohn caved in. The reader can draw his own conclusions.

Hoffa: "What's this I hear that you are still thinking of running in this election for something other than vice president? Well, you go right ahead! I think, however, that it would be only right for me to tell you that I have already picked the man who will immediately oppose you (for vice president)."

Mohn: "Now, Jimmy, who is it? Someone I know? You know I have the votes to hang on to my vice presidency. What are you trying to pull?"

Hoffa: "I'll be blankety blanked if I'll tell you! But I will tell you that it's up to you. If you do anything other than support me, you are through. And you know that what Jimmy says, Jimmy means!"

After that, Mohn bowed out. The man who tipped the scales for Hoffa, ironically, was the man who was supposed to have been the AFL-CIO's white hope—John English. Meany had appointed English to Dave Beck's seat on the AFL-CIO executive board. In return, English agreed to start a campaign inside the Teamsters to sweep out both Beck and Hoffa.

In other words, the AFL-CIO handed English the broom but he never did much sweeping. Meany gave him the bawling out of his life for his failure to act, but English was up against one of the toughest operators in America. He came out 100 per cent for Hoffa, the man he was supposed to clean out of the union.

What Next For Teamsters?

Here are the repercussions bound to take place as a result of Jimmy Hoffa's election as president of the world's largest union.

Repercussion No. 1: William A. Lee, the Teamsters seventh vice president, is expected to lead the anti-Hoffa forces into a new rival union under the AFL-CIO's wing. He has already received the unofficial blessing of AFL-CIO president George Meany. Other cleanup candidates—Tom Hickey, Tom Haggerty, and Congressman Jack Shelley—have pledged privately to join Lee in forming the new union. Lee's lawyers have been mapping legal strategy to prevent Hoffa from draining the treasures of locals that may want to follow Lee.

Repercussion No. 2: Hoffa will probably join forces with John L. Lewis in a new independent labor organization. The two labor strongmen have already huddled secretly. Hoffa has also talked to Bakers' boss James Cross, also under Congressional fire, about throwing in with them. Lewis said he could bring in the racket-ridden International Longshoremen's Union which has been feeding out of the Mine Workers' trough. The Hoffa-Lewis labor organization would be a haven for unions kicked out of the AFL-CIO.

Repercussion No. 3: The Justice Department will try again to send Hoffa to jail. The Criminal Division is studying Hoffa's testimony before the Senate Rackets Committee, with a view to prosecuting him for perjury. Hoffa claimed under oath he couldn't remember details that he later had no trouble recalling before the AFL-CIO ethical practices committee. The Justice Department is also interested in Senator McClellan's charge that most of the Teamster convention delegates were illegally elected.

Repercussion No. 4: The Senate Rackets Committee will now take off the kid gloves and pummel Hoffa with all it's got. It will cross-examine Hoffa about certain deals such as the use of union money to buy lots in Florida to sell to union members. The committee will also try to put enough evidence in the record to prove that Hoffa was illegally elected. The committee believes 75 per cent of the delegates can be disqualified.

The Supreme Law

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Many lawyers are writing to this correspondent from all parts of the country asking when President Eisenhower and the commanding general of the U.S. Army at Little Rock are going to uphold "the supreme law of the land" and cease violating a specific statute passed by Congress which forbids the use of federal troops to enforce court orders.

The law in question — known as the "Posse Comitatus Act" — was originally passed in 1878 but was restated and recodified by Congress on August 10, 1956, and now reads as follows:

"Whoever, except in cases and circumstances expressly authorized by the Constitution or act of Congress, willfully uses any part of the Army or the Air Force as a posse comitatus or otherwise to execute the laws shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both. This section does not apply to Alaska."

Originally this law, as passed in 1878, contained a reference only to the Army. But in 1956, when all federal laws were recodified to eliminate surplus language and to bring the phraseology up to date, the words "Air Force" were included.

As one lawyer, now retired from a legal branch of the armed services, writes:

"Obviously the only reason for this statute and its predecessor is to insure the people against the use of troops to enforce a court order; otherwise, the law has no meaning whatsoever."

There is, of course, no act of Congress which has "expressly authorized" the use of federal troops to enforce a court order. The three sections of federal law which were cited by President Eisenhower in his proclamation ordering federal troops into Arkansas have been restricted by the above-quoted "Posse Comitatus Act."

There is, moreover, no provision in the Constitution by which the use of troops to enforce court orders is "expressly authorized." The Constitution says the President "shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed," but it does not say he can use any means he pleases. The statutes specify the means whereby marshals and the thousands of citizens who may be de-utilized to act as assistant marshals can enforce the laws of the United States. This is what is known as a "posse comitatus" engaged in "civil process."

There are those who argue that, since the Constitution itself mentions "the supreme law of the land," the President may take any means he wishes to enforce any law. Here, however, is exactly what the Constitution says: "This Constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof; and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land."

Nothing is said to the effect that decisions of the Supreme Court or orders or mandates of the courts interpreting the Constitution are "the supreme law of the land." As one eminent lawyer writes:

"No federal or state court of record in America has ever held that a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States or that of any other federal court is 'the law of the land.'"

"Each decision is never anything more than the law of the case actually decided by the court and binding only upon the parties to that case and no others."

Since the Supreme Court has been reversing itself on several Constitutional issues for more than 100 years now, the use of troops to enforce an order on which the court could later be proved wrong might do irreparable damage.

This is why the late Charles Warren, himself an assistant attorney general and regarded as the nation's most noted historian in the field of the judiciary, says in his monumental "History of the Supreme Court of the United States," page 740, volume II:

"However the court may interpret the provisions of the Constitution, it is still the Constitution which is the law and not the decision of the court."

Only Congress, therefore, can pass any law that becomes truly "the law of the land." Only Congress can authorize the use of federal troops to enforce a law. Only the people themselves can amend the Constitution.

Low Burdette Blanks Yanks, 1-0; Braves Lead Series

Joe Adcock Singles In Only Score

Milwaukee Defense Sparkles; Sixth Game Wednesday

By JACK HAND
MILWAUKEE, Oct. 7 (P)—Fidgity Low Burdette blanked the New York Yankees with seven hits today 1-0 for his second World Series victory as the Milwaukee Braves took a 3-2 edge at the end of five games.

Joe Adcock, benched yesterday because of a severe hitting slump, drove in the only run of the game off Whitey Ford in the sixth with a line single to right following singles by Eddie Mathews and Hank Aaron.

Mathews, whose 10th inning homer won Sunday's game, rolled a high hopper toward second baseman Jerry Coleman. The veteran didn't charge the ball but waited for the hop and Mathews just beat his throw to first base.

Aaron dunked a single into short right field that fell between on-charging Hank Bauer and the back pedalling Coleman. With two out, Mathews was running with the hit. He easily reached third.

Adcock Rams Single
Adcock, who had bounced into a doubleplay last time up and had only two series hits in 14 previous at bats, rapped Ford's second pitch into right as Mathews romped home.

Burdette, 30, a right-hander who once worked for the Yanks before he helped carry the $50,000 to Boston for Johnny Sain in 1951, didn't walk a man. He struck out five, including the first two batters in the ninth.

After that Gil McDougald rolled a single into center field, then Burdette forced Yogi Berra to pop to Mathews for the game-ending out.

A grinning Burdette was virtually mobbed by his eager mates who rushed from the dugout to pump his hand and rub his college-style crewcut.

The crowd of 45,811 was slow to leave as though reluctant to see the Milwaukee end of the series finished.

Both teams flew to New York shortly after the game. They will work out tomorrow, an off day for travel purposes in the series schedule. The sixth game will be played Wednesday at Yankee Stadium.

All One-Base Hits
In sharp contrast to the other two games here that were loaded with homers and extra base hits, every one of the 13 hits in this game was a single. Andy Pafo and Aaron each had two of the Braves' six off Ford, and Mathews and Adcock had the others.

Hank Bauer kept his series streak alive with two singles, making it 12 consecutive series games in which he has hit safely. Enos Slaughter contributed two singles and McDougald, Berra and Coleman each added one.

The Yanks were forced to play without Mickey Mantle, their slugging center fielder, who had injured his shoulder sliding in Saturday's game. He was able to play Sunday but was handicapped at bat and in his throwing.

Mantle did get into the game briefly when the Yankees staged a threat in the eighth. He went in to run for Coleman after the infielder singled with one gone.

After pinch hitter Elston Howard was called out on strikes, Mantle tried to steal on the first pitch to Bauer. Del Crandall's perfect throw to Felix Mantilla cut him down with room to spare.

Schoendienst Is Hurt
Mantilla played second from the second inning on after Red Schoendienst pulled a groin muscle while trying vainly to stop Slaughter's roller that went for a single.

Wes Covington, who made a sensational catch at Yankee Stadium to save Burdette in the second inning of the second game, repeated with another spectacular save today.

McDougald led off the fourth with a long high fly to left. Covington moved back and grabbed the ball as he bounced off the fence.

It was a vital catch for Adcock booted Berra's grounder and Slaughter singled immediately afterwards. Then Mathews leaped to take Harry Simpson's hopper and turn it into a double play.

Only two balls were caught by Milwaukee outfielders as Burdette, a master of the slider and screwball, kept the Yanks hitting his breaking stuff into the dirt. Double plays in the second, fourth and seventh innings eased his path. Only in the fifth and sixth were there no Yankees on base.

Bob Turley took over the pitching chores for the Yanks in the eighth, retiring the Braves in order. He caught both Johnny Logan and Mathews on called third strikes.

Turley To Pitch
In the clubhouse after the game, Stengel said Turley, 27, a right-hander who was knocked out in the second inning of Saturday's game, would be his Wednesday pitcher.

Manager Fred Haney said he hadn't made up his mind about his Wednesday pitcher. It was expected he would go with Bob Buhl, the 18-game winner who was chased in the first inning of Saturday's game. Warren Spahn, the COVINGTON GRABS ANOTHER—Wes Covington, Milwaukee Braves' left fielder, leaps against wire fence in left field to catch home run bid by Gil McDougald of the New York Yankees in the fourth inning of yesterday's fifth World Series game. The leaping catch was made 355 feet from home plate and Covington fell to the ground but retained possession of the ball. The play was the second sensational catch the Braves outfielder has made in the series to save Lew Burdette, the winning hurler in yesterday's 1-0 contest. (AP Photofax).

Burdette Threw Only 87 Pitches In Second Win

Teammates, Fans Whoop Victory

By JERRY LISKA

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 7 (P)—Lew Burdette was out there on the mound, a maestro leading a giant symphony of roaring sounds. It was the Yankee ninth and the Braves were ahead 1-0.

He disarmed a whizzing pitch past Hank Bauer's bat for a third strike. The delicious—45,811 fans shrieked.

He threw one, two, three pitches past Tony Kubek. And the rhythm of noise rocked County Stadium.

One pitch to Gil McDougald and a single was spanked to center. Sudden quiet.

Then Burdette's arm flashed again. Yogi Berra swung under the pitch. Up, up it went. Halfway between home and first, Eddie Mathews danced in, grabbed it with grim determination. The game was over and the Braves led the series, 3 to 2.

The roar of the crowd exploded over this valley in which the home of the Braves nestles. It echoed and re-echoed.

On the field, the whole Milwaukee team did what the whooping crowd was itching to do. The Braves hugged Burdette, they pounded him, they surged as one joyful unit to the dugout with marvelous Lew stumbling happily, helplessly in the middle.

In his tremendous second winning effort against the Yanks, Burdette threw only 87 pitches.

Only once have the Yankees come from behind to win a series after trailing 3-2 after five games. That was in 1952 when they took the last two from the Dodgers at Brooklyn to win in seven. They trailed in 1953 3-2, won the sixth but lost the seventh to the Dodgers. Last year, the Yanks were out front of Brooklyn 3-2 after five games.

The fans gasped at the power shown by Eddie Mathews as he broke his bat in two in the fourth. He whistled the ball deep into foul territory and the fat part of the bat flew to the edge of the grass behind first base.

Wes Covington's leaping, fence-crashing catch of Gil McDougald's homer-tagged drive in the fourth was his second defensive sparkler of the series. His catch of Bobby Shantz's twisting liner in New York was the turning point of the second game won by the Braves, 4-2.

A loud titter ran through the press section when Don Davidson, Braves' publicist, announced the day's attendance as 45,811. This was seven more than the identical count of 45,804 for the first two absolute capacity days in Milwaukee. "Who came up with the shoe horn?" one wag shouted.

In shutting out New York today, Burdette lowered his series earned run average to 1. He has allowed the Yanks two runs in 18 innings—two complete games.

The World Series was brand new to Milwaukee fans, but not to Ed Welsh, 77, a retired bookkeeper from Youngstown, Ohio. Welsh was attending his 54th series, having seen every one since the post-

Low Phones Wife After Series Win

Burdette Says He Mixed Pitches

By CHUCK CAPALDO

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 7 (P)—While television and newsreel cameramen screamed his name and newsmen hounded his footsteps in the Braves' clubhouse, Lew Burdette quietly phoned his wife to tell her firsthand of his 1-0 victory over the Yankees today.

The fidgety, 30-year-old right-hander, who was once Yankee property, spoke in hushed tones to Mary Ann Burdette, who gave birth to a daughter only two weeks ago.

Then, after a few minutes he turned to the press and said, "All right, boys, now I'm all yours."

Burdette said he mixed screwballs, sinkers and sliders in shutting out New York on seven hits. "I mixed them up pretty well," he said. "Once in a while I threw a fast ball."

His toughest spot, the lanky native of Nitro, W. Va., said, was when he struck out pinchhitter Elston Howard in the eighth with pinch runner Mickey Mantle on first.

"That was as big an out as any," he said, "but then all the other outs were just as important."

Series Weather

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (P)—The World Series weather luck apparently will hold up for the sixth game at Yankee Stadium Wednesday afternoon (12 noon, EST).

The U.S. Weather Bureau today predicted it would be mostly fair and somewhat milder with possibility of temperatures in the low 70s.

Today's fifth game was held in Milwaukee. In New York it was raw, cloudy and windy. Tomorrow is an off day for travel.

Coleman Says He "Blew" Hit By Ed Mathews

Play Set Up The Game's Only Run

By TED SMITS

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 7 (P)—Jerry Coleman accepted responsibility today like the officer and gentleman that he is for the play that set up the run by which the Milwaukee Braves beat the New York Yankees, 1-0.

"I blew it," he said, solemn and grim faced.

He referred to the high bouncer hit by Eddie Mathews in the sixth with two out.

"I played it badly. I should have taken one step in. He fooled me with his speed," said Coleman, the Yankee second baseman. "He should have been out."

Oklahoma, Michigan State Remain 1-2 In AP Grid Poll

Other Teams In Top Ten Shift Around

Navy Drops From List; Texas Aggies, Michigan Move Up

By JOHN CHANDLER
The Associated Press

Oklahoma and Michigan State remained 1-2 in the weekly Associated Press nationwide college football poll today, but there was a bit of shifting around involving other teams in the top 10—with Army moving in and Navy bowing out.

With Oklahoma overpowering Iowa State 40-14 in spite of some flu bugs that hit the Sooners, the nation's sports writers and sportscasters gave Coach Bud Wilkinson's 1955-56 national champions 65 first place ballots out of a total of 116. On the point basis, 10 for first, 9 for second, etc., Oklahoma got 1,047 points to lead the college grid parade for the third straight week.

Army Climbs Up
Michigan State, which blanked California 19-0, had 21 first place votes and a total of 906 points. Army, which slugged Penn State 27-13, came up from 12th to 10th, and Navy, whipped by North Carolina 13-7, dropped not only from sixth place, but clear out of the first 20 teams.

Texas A. & M., which defeated Missouri 28-0, moved up from fifth place a week ago to third, with 698 points, dropping Minnesota, a 21-17 victor over Purdue, to fourth with 557 points.

Duke, fourth last week, went down a notch after beating Maryland 14-0, while Michigan—No. 10 a week ago—zoomed into sixth on the strength of a 26-0 victory over Georgia.

ADCKOCK'S HIT WINS GAME — This diagram shows Joe Adcock's game-winning single in the sixth inning of yesterday's fifth game of the 1957 World Series at Milwaukee. The hit drove Eddie Mathews home from third base with the contest's only run as the Braves edged the Yankees, 1-0. Mathews beat out a slow bouncer to second to start the rally with two out. Hank Aaron blooped a single to right and Adcock then singled (arrow) for winning hit. Milwaukee now leads the series, 3-2, over New York. The teams will be idle today, resuming the Series on Wednesday. (AP Photofax).

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (INS) — The college football season is still young but already there have been some surprises sprung.

There will be more surprises this coming Saturday and the day is sure to see some of the nation's biggest powerhouses toppled from their high estate.

Take the Michigan-Michigan State game, for instance, here are two of the finest teams in the country and apparently so evenly matched that a lucky break might decide the issue. Unless there is a tie, the loser automatically will be dropped in the national rankings, although it is probable that the loser could still beat several teams which will be ranked above it.

The Army-Notre Dame rivalry, renewed after a 10-year lapse, should be another thriller. Army has a terrific ground attack but its pass defense was not so hot against Penn State. It also has the biggest line it ever had and one that hits with stunning force. The Irish are still in the process of rebuilding and friends in the midwest assure us the club is still far below the standard of the old Notre Dame teams.

as any of the Big Ten outfits and after watching them slaughter Columbia Saturday, we are inclined to believe they would hold their own anywhere.

Yale is good and so are rebuilding Penn, Dartmouth and Brown. Brown.

The Independents also appear stronger than a year ago. Navy was supposed to be the strongest team in the east but the Middles ran into a North Carolina typhoon Saturday and may get another shock or two even before meeting Army.

Pitt was walloped by Oklahoma in its opener—but who beats Oklahoma?—and bounced right back against Oregon and Southern California. Boston College, Boston University, Syracuse and Holy Cross also have shown class in their early battles.

Reports from the coast say that the teams out there appear sub-standard, but we are loathe to believe that they can be as weak as reported.

Mont Makes Terp Changes

Team Drills For Wake Forest Game

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 7 — Maryland Coach Tommy Mont, made two changes in his first team today in preparation for Saturday's Atlantic Coast Conference game here against Wake Forest.

Sophomore Jim Joyce of Philadelphia was moved up to No. 1 fullback on the basis of his performance in Maryland's 14-0 loss to Duke last week. He replaces sophomore John Forbes who becomes No. 2 fullback.

Right end Bill Turner, a senior from Silver Spring, was moved ahead of Ben Scotti.

The first two teams worked out in sweatsuits today, running dummy drills, while the third team, fully suited, scrimmaged for 30 minutes with the B squad.

Wake Forest was one of two teams Maryland defeated (6-0) last season, but both have gone winless this year, the Terps dropping three and Wake Forest two. The game will be televised regionally from Baltimore to Florida.

Patterson Offered $140,000 For Bout

LONDON, Oct. 7 — British boxing promoter Jack Solomons said today he has offered Floyd Patterson $140,000 to defend his heavyweight title in England next June. The promoter said he would like to match the American against Dick Richardson if the 23-year old Welshman beats Willie Pastrano of New Orleans in London, Oct. 22.

In New York, Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, said Solomons' "so-called offer is nothing but a publicity stunt."

Richardson, a mediocre fighter, has fought only one class fighter, Cuba's Nino Valdes. The big Cuban knocked out Richardson in the eighth round, Dec. 4, 1956.

Aircraft, Missile Shares Boom, Steel Issues Drop

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—Aircraft and missile shares boomed today in reaction to news of Russia's man-made satellite but had reports from the steel industry and general uneasiness sent the stock market as a whole down to a 1957 low.

The Soviet moon caused general uneasiness, market analysts reported. This was heightened by word that the Russians had exploded a new type hydrogen bomb. The uncertainty led to a degree of nervous selling, brokers said.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $3.30 to $164.30, a new low for the year, bringing the average back again to where it was in October 1955. The industrial component dropped $5.60, the rails $2.80 and the utilities 40 cents.

The Dow-Jones industrial average also fell to a '57 low, dropping 9.28 to 432.42.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index declined .57 to 42.2.

Of 1,162 issues traded, declines totaled 812 and advances 176. There were 182 new 1957 lows and, for the second time within the past few weeks, no new highs.

Of the 15 most active stocks, six rose, seven fell and two were unchanged. Aircraft and missile stocks were prominent among the winners, steels among the losers.

Somehow, there's something missing in the girl who tells everything she knows.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Keep It To Yourself

The mysterious smile of Mona Lisa fascinates everybody. She looks as if she knows so much that she isn't telling. Here is a special case of the magnetic appeal that needs no words, of course. I don't recommend for a minute that you go around imitating her expression — your friends would surely think that something had suddenly gone wrong with you. But there is a lot to be said for not blurring out everything you know and think.

Dignity and reserve should be aims of yours even if you're very young. The are qualities that win you respect, and you do want to be respected as well as liked. All the cards on the table all the time may be honest and forthright, but putting them there when it isn't at all necessary loses you dignity and can even make you a bore. It certainly ups your talk, talk talk output to the point where you're not seriously listened to.

Avoid The Trap

Then, if you put everything you think and feel into words, you're setting a trap for yourself. You won't have exactly the same attitudes all your life, and some of them may change soon and more than once. This is fine because it shows your thinking is progressive, but your friends will remember what you said so emphatically the first time, and doubt, discount or care not at all about what you say later.

And if you tell everything you know about others, you can do so much harm. "Idle words start busy gossip, however innocently you say them. If you are unkind, intentionally or unintentionally, about someone you learn to like later, you're in an awkward position indeed to make friends.

Think three times before you chatter away about yourself or anyone else: The first time, to question whether or not what you say can be harmful; the second, to decide whether or not anyone cares to hear it; the third, to determine how what you say makes you seem to others. Be a person who's worth listening to, and who has depths in yourself she doesn't always reveal.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7 (INS) — Young Sal Mineo, the teenagers' boy friend, checks in at Columbia in December to star in "Tubi's Monument." With two hit records to his credit this looks like a neutral for young Sal since he'll sing three songs.

Jonie Tappes, who is the music advisor for Harry Cohn, will be the producer to bring Sal to his first Columbia picture. Sal needs someone who understands music because his role is that of a singer who reaches a place of great prominence after singing commercials for TV.

Columbia's going to have a try at seeing if they can have another Tommy Sands, and so Sal has been given a contract for other pictures.

The rave of the MGM lot these days is New York actress Gena Rowlands. This I can believe because, although I missed seeing her with Eddie G. Robinson in "The Middle of the Night" when I was last in New York, I heard great things about Gena.

Now she's in the middle of production on Milo Frank's "Bay the Moon," her first movie, and both Milo and star-director Jose Ferrer tell me the blonde Rowlands girl is in movies to stay. Milo is so sold he'd like to get her started in something else immediately but his next up, "The Millionth Man," has no suitable part. So he's dickering with writer Dick Berg for his "Drop of a Hat," a TV hit earlier in the year, for Gena — Who in private life is Mrs. John Sassavetes.

I had quite a talk with Lee J. Cobb, who has the director's bee in his bonnet. He told me he is working on a script, but he wouldn't tell me the name until he gets to see how it turns out. If it is all right he will accept the challenge and see what he can do as a director.

He told me he had had an offer from one of the big British TV shows, asking him to present "Death of a Salesman," the play that brought him worldwide fame, but he is hesitating about TV. He is one of our finest actors and he prefers motion pictures all the way.

Of all the New York actresses, I believe Joanne Woodward has that real spark of talent which makes for star material.

This girl, who played the multiple personality girl in "Three Faces of Eve," gives a completely different characterization in "No Down Payment." Her Lola, the blonde little girl with a pony tail and thick southern accent, who enrages her husband to the point where he is ready to kill her, is superb.

There are other good performances in this Jerry Wald dramatization of the current John McTommey Sands, and so Sal has been given a contract for other pictures.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

One of Hollywood's perennial bachelors, Jules Selzer, brother of Frank and Walter, is marrying Virginia Worth, local real estate operator, on Thanksgiving eve. Jules produces the trailers for 20th.

Bonita and Jack Wrather sail today on their 10th annual "honeymoon" tour. They visit a different country each year, and this year it's Scotland.

Pilar Wayne takes off for Hong Kong to join John Wayne. But Pilar will be back to spend Christmas with her baby. This is the second Christmas John will have missed. He's gone until February on the "Townsend Harris Story."

Pretty little Grace Raynor, with the Kraft show and Robert Montgomery Presents on TV, and also in the movie "Desk Set," is in Mexico to co-star with Sterling Hayden in "Ten Days to Tulara."

Congratulations to the new owner of the Howard Manor in Palm Springs, Dave Margolis. He is keeping publicist Joe Glaston, who served Audrea and Bob Howard so long and faithfully.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

16 Witnesses Testify Before Grand Jurors

Judge Henderson Delivers Charge

Sixteen witnesses were heard yesterday by the grand jury for the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court which began its investigations into county crime after hearing its charge from Chief Judge George Henderson.

In making his final charge to a grand jury before his retirement, Judge Henderson emphasized that "in connection with your recommendations you must keep in mind that they do not have the force of law."

Excused At 3:40 P. M.

Judge Henderson excused the 15 men and eight women on the grand jury at 3:40 p. m. yesterday with instructions to report at 9:15 a. m. today to resume their functions.

Concerning recommendations, he told the jurors:

"Those to whom they are made may have some good reason for non-compliance. Nor are you yourselves bound to agree with those made by previous grand juries. But a recommendation made by any grand jury is certainly entitled to respectful consideration," Judge Henderson explained.

Judge Henderson told the jurors that "there is imposed on grand jurors part of the responsibility for conditions of the county — whether it be law abiding, or whether it will be the reverse."

Officials Responsible

"Naturally, the primary responsibility rests on the permanent law enforcement officials, such as the court, the state's attorney, the magistrate, the sheriff, and to a lesser extent on the various municipal officials in their own towns."

"But grand jurors, coming as they do from the various parts of the county and representing various business and occupations, and various religions, may have information of conditions which should be corrected, and about which others are not informed."

"And if they have such knowledge and do nothing, then they are at least partly responsible for the continuance of such conditions. Grand jurors have a good opportunity to improve the moral tone of the community."

Not Limited

"Probably most of the matters that will engage the attention of the grand jury will be brought before it by the state's attorney. He is the official adviser of the grand jury, and many matters have from time to time come to his attention which it will be his duty to present for your action."

"But you are not limited to matters presented to you by the state's attorney, and you can, on your own accord, go into these matters. If any of you have any personal knowledge of other offenses, it is not only your privilege but duty to bring it to the attention of your colleagues."

"Every grand jury should read carefully the report of the last preceding grand jury, and other grand jury reports if thought advisable. This should be done as soon as possible after the grand jury has retired to the grand jury room and organized. Leaves Bench March 17

"It enables each grand juror to have a better idea what has been done before. Also the current grand jury can from time to time see whether the recommendations of the preceding grand juries have been carried out. If these recommendations with which you agree have not been carried out, the grand jury may wish to find out the reason why."

Thomas M. Holmes, a Lonaconing merchant, is foreman of the grand jury.

Judge Henderson will leave the bench next March 17 upon reaching the mandatory retirement age of 70 and therefore yesterday was his final charge to a grand jury. Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris will deliver the charge in January.

Squirrel Isn't Safe-Even In A City Park

Squirrels that romp about the trees of Constitution Park have found that life is not so peaceful during small game hunting season, which opened Saturday.

Robert R. Golden, superintendent of the park, said last night he is having trouble with "poor sports" who enter the area armed with rifles, small gauge shotguns and regular shotguns and shoot at the friendly little animals.

He said he spotted one such "sport" yesterday but was unable to catch him. There are not quite as many squirrels making their home in the park this fall, since quite a few left for surrounding wooded areas.

Careless Hunters Blamed For Fires

District 16 Volunteer Fire Company extinguished two brush fires, both attributed to careless hunters, on Saturday.

The fire fighters quenched a blaze on Williams Road in late morning after it burned over less than an acre of brush land. Firemen said they believed the blaze was set by a hunter who tried to warm a can of beans.

The same company was called to Oldtown that night and put out a blaze which burned over about a fourth of an acre of land. Firemen said the fire was probably started by a hunter who tried to smoke a squirrel out of a tree.

Wilkinson Plans Motion Concerning Job

Assessment Post Procedure Cited

County Commissioner C. N. Wilkinson announced last night that he will make a motion at today's meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners that the proper legal procedure be started immediately for the appointment by the commissioners of an assistant supervisor of assessments.

His motion will request that in compliance with Section H of Article 81 of the Laws of Maryland a list of not less than three applicants for the position of assistant supervisor of assessments of Allegany County be forwarded to the State Tax Commission.

Mr. Wilkinson's motion further will request that the State Tax Commission give the necessary interviews and examinations to determine the qualifications of the applicants for that position and that the State Tax Commission be requested to return to the county commissioners the certified list of applicants with their respective grades for final action.

Finally, he will suggest that because the application of W. Edward Eichner has already been filed, because he has 14 years experience with the assessors' office and because of his recent qualification as a certified assessment evaluator that his name should be included on the list.

Mr. Wilkinson first will call attention to the fact that the position of assistant supervisor of assessment is presently open for appointment. Then he will explain the procedure called for in Section H of Article 81 for the examination of at least three applicants by the State Tax Commission.

The county commissioner said he does not know how many applications for this position are on file with the clerk to the county commissioners, although he does know that Mr. Eichner has applied.

City Receives Social Security Vote Permission

Social Security coverage for Cumberland police and firemen moved another step forward yesterday as Governor Theodore R. McKeldin granted permission for a referendum on the issue.

The Governor wrote Mayor Roy W. Eves that he has requested Hooper S. Miles, chairman of the Employees Retirement System, to supervise the election among members of the department.

The Police and Fire departments were not eligible to vote on Social Security when other city departments entered the system last year.

They became eligible to participate in the federal program recently as a result of Congressional action.

The permission granted by Gov. McKeldin will allow Mayor Eves to schedule the referendum by issuing a 90-day notice which sets the date and conditions of the poll.

Kiwanians To See Wire Safety Program

Raymond W. Hahne, an employee in the Potomac Edison Company Service department for 22 years, will be the featured speaker at the meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at 12:15 p. m. Thursday at Central YMCA.

Mr. Hahne will present a display and skit type program showing the causes and effects of inadequate home wiring systems. He is a past president of the Fort Hill-Penn Avenue Alumni Association, is now the president of the Johnson Heights PTA and is general superintendent of St. John's Lutheran Church Sunday school.

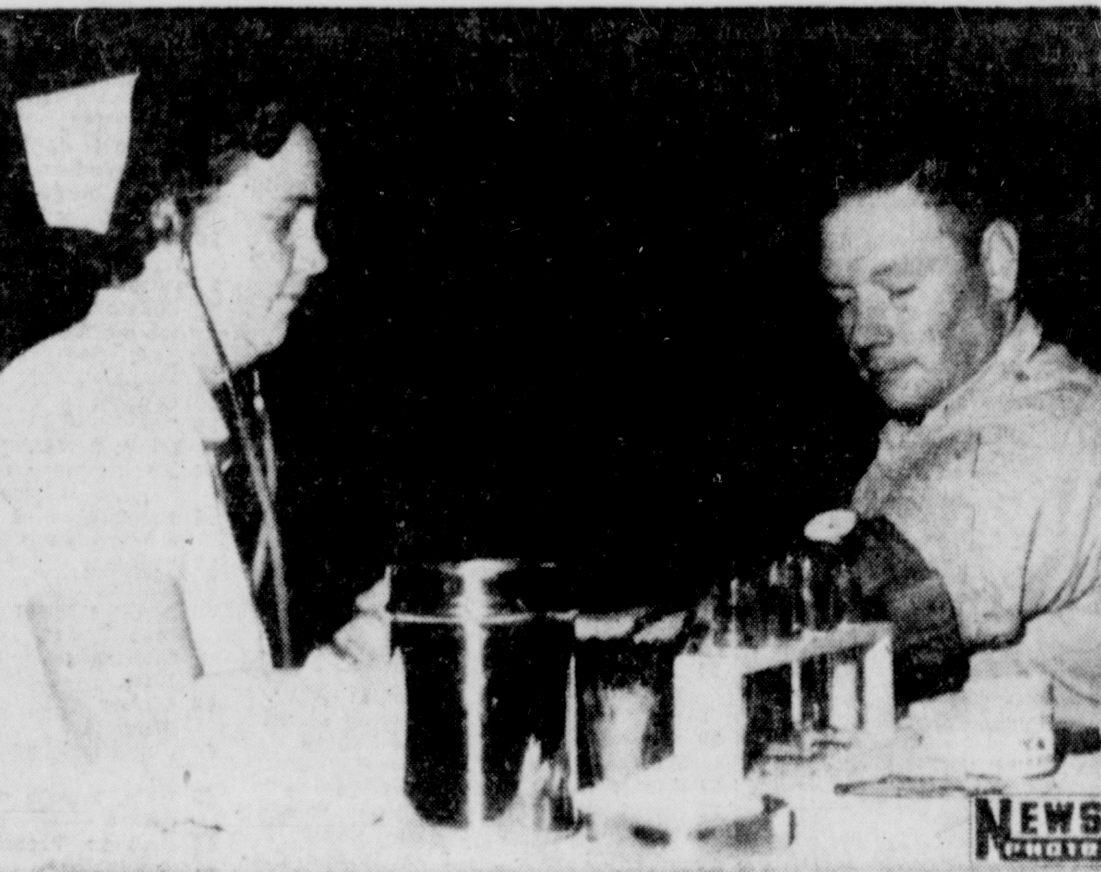

Entitled "Are You Starving Your Servants?" this demonstration vividly points out the increased use of electricity in our homes since the 1930s and the fact that most wiring systems have not been modernized to handle this increase.

The nurse, who is checking Mr. Lanam's blood pressure is Mrs. Mary Jane Frye. A total of 45 pints was donated by the shopmen.

B&O Shopmen Donate 45 Pints Of Blood

Unit To Visit Frostburg Today

The Red Cross Bloodmobile visit to the local Baltimore and Ohio Railroad shops here yesterday failed to collect the desired quota of 150 pints of blood, and railroad men donated only 45 pints.

The Red Cross recruitment had asked that 200 prospective donors be recruited and scheduled prior to the visit, however, only 51 volunteer donors indicated they would give blood. Of these 51 scheduled, only 36 put in an appearance. Of this number, one was rejected due to a disability. However, 10 unscheduled volunteer walk-ins brought the total to 45. Of this number 33 gave blood for the first time.

Dr. W. F. Williams and Dr. Richard T. Williams were the physicians on duty.

Red Cross officials noted this was the poorest response to any visit of the bloodmobile here. Visits to other local industries had resulted in quotas being exceeded, they said.

The next regular visit of the bloodmobile to Cumberland will be a public collection at the Eagles Building, North Mechanic Street, from 1 to 6 p. m. November 4.

The bloodmobile unit will visit Frostburg today, with the collection center set up in the American Legion home this afternoon. Frostburg needs a number of volunteer walk-ins to meet its quota.

Mr. Clark said the object seemed to be going from the Altoona, Pa., area in the direction of Keyser. He said it was possibly a comet, although he didn't think it was an airplane.

City Is Asked To Rezone Area For PE Center

Site Secured For $300,000 Facility

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission last night urged the Mayor and City Council to rezone for business use a six-acre site on which the Potomac Edison Company proposes to construct a $300,000 service center.

The recommendation was made by the commission following a public hearing in City Hall after plans for the service center were explained by William C. Walsh, local attorney, and Paul Byers, PE engineer.

No formal objections were filed by three citizens who appeared at the hearing to learn details of the proposal.

Goes To Council

The formal recommendation will be presented to the Mayor and Council this week, along with blueprints and pictures.

During the hearing, officials of the Potomac Edison Company announced plans for construction of the service center which, when completed, will provide greater convenience for local PE customers and a more centralized and efficient operation.

Cumberland District Manager Henry W. Price, in making the announcement, said the new center will be bounded by West Memorial Avenue, Fourth Street and Somerville Avenue.

If the site is approved by the proper authorities, PE officials expect to advertise for bids around the first of the year. Construction would then get under way in early spring, with completion expected in the winter of 1958.

Will Be Landscaped

The proposed $300,000 two-building unit will be of modern design, fire resistant construction and brick exterior. A large black-topped parking area for customers, employees and company vehicles is included in the plans; grass and shrubbery will be planted on the unused portion of the site. Also included will be crew quarters for linemen, complete servicing facilities and garages for automotive equipment.

There will be accommodations in the unit for the utility company's local Service Department, Line Department, Meter Department, Storeroom and District Engineering Department, all of which are now located in different places on Union and North Centre streets.

The merchandise store and accounting offices of the local utility company will remain at their present location on Liberty Street and the district offices will still be located on Union Street.

Hearing Needed

James A. Avirett, chairman, explained the Mayor and Council must pass on the commission's recommendation and then advertise for and hold a public hearing before adopting an ordinance for the zoning change.

Mr. Walsh, in outlining the proposal, explained the proposed service center will be located on what is now vacant land and would, in his opinion, be an improvement and not a detriment to the area.

He pointed out that the company feels traffic congestion on North Centre and Union streets will be relieved by the new facilities. Plans call for adequate parking areas for both company employees and customers.

Buildings will be set back 100 feet from Fourth Street, Mr. Byers said, and the 6.19-acre site will be landscaped.

Seek Information

Appearing at the hearing were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ehrich, 39 Memorial Avenue, and Paul Penrod, 37 Memorial Avenue.

Mrs. Ehrich expressed concern that the rezoning of the tract might add to the area's traffic problem, and sought assurance that other parts of the present residential area will not be rezoned.

The commission, Mr. Avirett explained, does not recommend zoning changes when they affect only a lot or two.

The citizens were also assured the zoning change would not open the area to trailer camps and heavy trucks.

The Telephone Company, Mr. Finan explained, has acquired
